SINGLE GERMAN COMPELS BRITISH SHIP TO RETURN TO U. S. PORT

Ernest Schiller Holds Up Captain and 56 Members of Crew of Steamer Matoppo, on High Seas.

RIFLES SAFE AND DESTROYS PAPERS

Coast Guard Commander Makes Quick Work of Disarming Desperado; Will Be Turned Over to English.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE) Lewes, Del., March 29.—How one German stowaway held up the captain and fifty-six members of the crew of the British steamer Matoppo, compelling them at the point of a pistol to change the course of the vessel and land him at the Delaware breakwater after he had seized the ship's rifles and taken their valuables, was told here tonight by Captain Bergner, master of the Matoppo. The stowaway, who says his name is Ernst Schiller, and that he had lived in Hollywood, N. J., for the last eight months, is now locked up in the jail here, awaiting the arrival of the United States district attorney from Wilmington, Del., and the British consul general from Philadelphia.

Will Be Handed to British. The hold-up took place outside the three-mile limit and federal authorities here say that this government, under the circumstances, probably will have nothing to do with the matter. Schiller, they say, will be returned to the Matoppo and turned over to British officials at St. Lucia, where the vessel will stop for coal.

The Matoppo pulled from New York yesterday for Vladivostok with a cargo consisting chiefly of barbed wire and farm implements. She passed out Sandy Hook at 6 o'clock in the evening and two hours later, upon entering the cabin, Captain Bergner says he was confronted by a young man with a revolver in each hand.

Loots Ship of Valuables. "Hands up and not a sound if you value your life," was the command that greeted him. The captain was then bound hand and foot and locked in his cabin, promising under penalty of death, not to raise an alarm. Then cautiously making his way to the wireless cabin, the stowaway, who is about 25 years old, put the instruments out of commission and threw the ship's guns, consisting of six rifles, overboard. He then returned to the captain's cabin, rifled the safe and destroyed many important papers. He had expected, he told Captain Bergner, to find at least $2,000 in English money aboard the Matoppo, but in this his hopes were shattered. There was not a penny in the safe.

Later, however, Schiller compelled the captain and the first officer to hand over their pocketbooks containing a total of about $150. Threatened With Bombs. With Captain Bergner still a prisoner in his own cabin, Schiller proceeded to round up the crew of fifty-six men, all but a few of whom were in their bunks. He lined all hands up in one end of the ship and threatened to blow everybody to pieces with bombs he said he had placed in different parts of the vessel. If any one made a move.

At 4 o'clock this morning Schiller released Captain Bergner and still gripping a revolver in each hand, ordered the steamer headed toward shore. Other officers and members of the crew were likewise ordered to their places and told to put on all speed for the Delaware capes. When the Matoppo came within sight of land about noon Schiller ordered a small boat lowered to take him ashore. Meanwhile the steamer's signals asking for assistance had been sighted by the pilot boat Philadelphia which immediately responded to the call and took the small boat in tow, disregarding the threats of Schiller, who still was in possession of his guns, and threatened to shoot anybody who laid a hand on him.

Coast Guard Acts Promptly. Steaming for the Delaware breakwater, the Philadelphia was met off Cape Henlopen, Del., by a coast guard power boat which had put out from Lewes in answer to the Matoppo's signals. Captain John S. Lynch, coast guard keeper at this station, who was in command of the power boat, made short work of disarming Schiller, who was placed in irons and brought ashore. Later he was locked up in the jail here and the United States district attorney at Wilmington and the British consul general at Philadelphia were notified. Both are expected here tomorrow.

First reports today were to the effect that the Matoppo carried a cargo of munitions for the entente allies and that Schiller was in the employ of the German government. These, however, are discredited by Captain Bergner as well as government officials here. Bergner said he believes Schiller's sole object was to obtain a large amount of money which he thought was aboard.

HAS EIGHT CHILDREN. Mrs. P. Rehkamp, 2404 Herman St., Covington, Ky., writes: "I have been using Foley's Honey and Tar for nearly two years and can find no better cough syrup. I have eight children and give it to all of them. They all were subject to croup from babies on." It is a safe and reliable medicine for men and women as well as children. Don't let the cough that follows grippe hang on and weaken you. It is easier to get rid of a cough or cold than of its consequences. Sold everywhere.

Last year we sold over forty thousand pounds of chick feed. This season will sell more. Nothing goes into this feed but grains and seeds of highest quality. Among other seed it contains choice millet, hemp, rape, canary seed. Also snow-white ground bone, lean meat. Twenty ingredients that makes the best one ever sold. Six pounds for 25c; 25 pounds, 90c; 50 pounds for $1.80; 100 pounds $3.50. E. W. FEE.

AMMUNITION BROKER ARRESTED IN NEW YORK

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE) Washington, March 29.—Hans Tauscher, arrested today in New York for many months in the United States for his activities as an ammunition broker, according to department officials, department agents professed today to have traced his alleged operations from New York to the Pacific coast and said he had been under surveillance for a long time. Most of the information which the department will use in prosecuting his case, it was said, was obtained before Scotland Yard detectives brought Haupt von der Goltz, the alleged German spy to New York, last Saturday. Von der Goltz story, however, was said to have corroborated facts already known.

For a time after the beginning of the war, according to the department's information, Tauscher's efforts were directed chiefly toward attempting to devise a method whereby munitions purchased here could be shipped to Germany. When he found it could not be done, he is said to have continued his purchases of ammunition, largely to prevent its falling into the hands of the allies.

As a result of these alleged purchases, a large quantity of ammunition, officials say, now is stored on the Pacific coast. Officials indicated that Tauscher's arrest would be followed by others as the result of von der Goltz' revelations against German sympathizers in the United States.
